Dear Sir

Greetings from Informatics!!!

Thank you for patronizing J-Gate@UGC-INFONET (previously known as JCCC) and we sincerely hope that you are able to make the best out of the new platform with its better features and functionalities.

As the researchers dwell in J-Gate@UGC-INFONET, why not he swim to a gateway which today qualifies for the world's largest journal discovery service. For a wider discovery experience, we are pleased to provide one month trial of complete J-Gate, the mother portal indexing more than 40,000 journals accessible on the same platform. Having access to complete J-Gate provides the user the following additional benefits, other than what are already available with J-Gate@UGC-INFONET:

1. Browse additional 22,000+ academic, research and Industry journals in all disciplines.
1. Search from 38 million articles out of which 7 million articles are open access.

2. An affordable replacement to expensive bibliographic databases in multi-disciplinary subject areas.
3. Full text access to additional 13,500+ open access journals indexed in the J-Gate complete database.
4. 6,000+ journals having “find in a library” indication that enables the user to identify the library which is getting this journal in which the desired article is published.
5. J-Gate can act as a tool for the librarian to decide on new journals subscription.

What more, all the above mentioned content is available on the same UGC-INFONET platform. Kindly click on the URL mentioned below to start your journey to the world of e-journals:

www.jgateplus.com

The users won't need separate access credentials for accessing J-Gate. We would appreciate if you can forward this information to the faculty members and researchers of your institute for their kind perusal and feedback.

Please contact our Help Desk at jcoordinator@informaticsglobal.com or the undersigned in case of any issues regarding the access.

Sincerely

For Informatics Publishing Ltd.
